

Session supports young musicians

We liked to support competitions aimed at encouraging young musicians. Here is one which was organised by the BBC 'Rock School Team'. Headed up by Deirdre Cartwright, the presenter of the Rock School TV program.

The TV programs ran for three series, and helped people wanting to learn or improve their musical skills within the Rock music genre.

In the first programme, four amplifiers were lined up and described as the classics of rock and pop music. The first one was the Vox AC30, the second was the Marshall SuperLead amp head and 4 x 12" 1960 cab, the third was the H&H IC100 'Musician' head and lastly the Sessionette:75.

On the right Deirdre can be seen with a Sessionette which we loaned her for the TV series... errr, Deirdre, can we have it back now please?
